Acushnet Dismisses Lawsuit Against Dixon Golf

GILBERT, ARIZ., May 18, 2016- Dixon Golf, manufacturers of the first high performance eco-friendly golf balls, announced today that Acushnet, the parent company of Titleist, has officially dismissed its case against Dixon Golf for patent infringement.

"This is a great day for Dixon Golf, our eco-friendly Dixon Fire golf ball and the many golfers who play the golf ball," says William Carey CEO of Dixon Golf. "We will continue to make a positive impact on the environment, the community and the game with the highest of integrity."

Acushnet filed federal action in Massachusetts during Spring 2015 and alleged that Dixon infringed on Titleist's "triangular dipyrmaid dimple pattern." Allegations regarding the Dixon Fire have been dismissed and Dixon Golf is no longer a defendant in the lawsuit.

Dixon Golf, an Ariz. based company, is the world's only manufacturer of a high performance, eco-friendly family of golf balls. Borne from a desire to limit its impact on the environment, from core to cover, from packaging to production, Dixon golf is setting a new standard in environmental consciousness. Dixon Golf believes in being socially responsible and has donated more than $1,000,000 to charities nationwide since 2012. The Dixon family of golf balls is distributed internationally and conforms to USGA standards.
